General Notes

- Places offered for courses at the College are subject to the acceptance of the provisions outlined in this policy and no further consideration will be given to requests for refunds which fall outside the terms of this policy.
- If an incorrect fee is levied any refund applicable will not be subject to an administration charge.

- The regulations above are not applicable if a course is cancelled by the College for any reason in which case a pro-rata refund of the course fee will be paid to enrolled students for the weeks remaining of the course.
- Refunds will only be made by Government cheque or BACS. Payments received by card will be refunded to the original card that made the payment. The College does not offer cash refunds.
- In exceptional circumstances where University College may legally be required to close, significant effort will be made to try and ensure that the College will maintain its business as far as possible. Where this is the case and students have been taught/supported remotely throughout the closure period, or up until the assessment date, (whichever is the shortest), UCM will be unable to offer a refund of course fees or exam costs.

The withdrawal and refund administration charge for 2022-23 is £25.00 and applies to courses run between 1st September 2022 and 31st August 2023 inclusive.
